Intermediate High speakers can generally be understood by native speakers unaccustomed to dealing with non-natives, although interference from another language may be evident (e.g, use of code-switching, false cognates, literal translations), and a pattern of gaps in communication may occur.

This course also addresses some of the special needs of a population of students who come from a minority background in the state, not only linguistically, but also academically and in cultural terms. Building on the BOR's commitment to the Native communities of South Dakota, this course may be a tool for the retention of Native students at SDSU.
